CREATE YOUR OWN COLLAGE

In the Look to See collaboration, Stacey Evans presented students from Charlottesville High School and Lycée Louis Pasteur with the creative task of altering landscape photographs she made in both cities. Through making photo collages, students examined the architecture, geography, and essential materials of each environment, cutting and ripping pictures into shapes to reconstruct a layered image merging the two regions.

Let's Get Started!

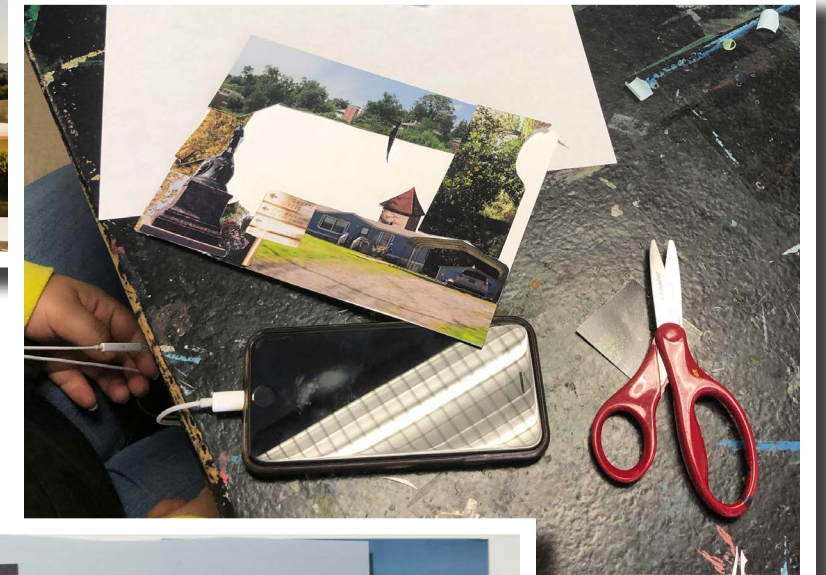

Use one or more of the attached resource photographs by Stacey Evans from Charlottesville, VA and Besançon, France to create your own collage from the below materials. You can find them by clicking the link HERE or attached to the back of this packet.

You will need:

- Scissors for cutting or tearing. We don't recommend knives because you may cut yourself.
- Mounting paper - I work with cardstock around 7.5" x 5.5", find what you can.
- Glue or Tape - If you want to make your piece permanent using double sided sticky tape or glue. If permanence does not matter, take a photo to document the collage rather than hold on to the actual collage.
- Camera- Phone camera work well to document the piece. Use a window for better light.
- Resources for getting photographs printed -
 - Richmond Camera
 - Kinkos
 - Staples (you can e-mail photos and they will do curbside pick up)

Send photos of your finished collage for possible inclusion on our website and social media platforms by emailing images of your work to info@secondstreetgallery.org.
